V. B. Price returns with an urgent suite of poems for Chaco Canyon, alongside his archival Chaco poems.

Chaco Canyon is once again threatened (as it perpetually is) by forces looking to disregard the cultural and historical importance of the region to Puebloan and other Indigenous peoples, as well as to all New Mexicans.

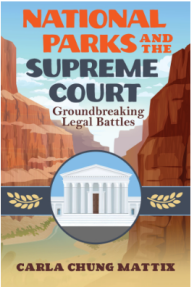

V. B. Price has long written about this place as an anthropologist, a journalist, and a poet. Now, he returns with a new and urgent suite of poems for Chaco. These are included here alongside his archival work, previously published as Chaco Trilogy (consisting of Chaco Body, Chaco Elegies, and Chaco Mind).

FOGELSON LIBRARY

Learning Lives Here

The former university library at the heart of Midtown is being reimagined as a dynamic new branch of the Santa Fe Public Library—envisioned not just as a space for books, but as a vibrant cultural and innovation hub. It will offer community gathering zones, maker spaces, storytelling programs, digital services, and programming for children—bringing a 21st-century library experience to the heart of the district

What's Next?

- Phase 1 of the project with the design build team lead by Jaynes Corp., with architects from Autotroph and Richard Kennedy.
- MRA has designated $2.5 million to assist with renovations that will bring the facility up to current fire code, ADA and IBC standards.

Fogelson isn't the only thing on the horizon. As part of our commitment to meeting the needs of our community, and with the support of the City of Santa Fe, we will be opening Southside on Sundays beginning in January 2027. Other projects include updating the public computers, growing our collections to include more Spanish language materials, adding more accessibility options to programs and services and doing more outreach with our community partners to bring library resources to under-served communities in Santa Fe.

Thank You!
